The Gospel in the Dock

c s lewis famously penned the phrase god in the dock and proposed that there was a great divide between ancient and modern humans in that our ancestors would have rightly seen themselves in the dock before god while we moderns have placed god there before us but what if what god s love most desires for us the gospel or good news of the only way of life for humanity has been in the dock before us from the time of adam and eve and what if it is also the case that the gospel is often in the dock as though it is not good even for the church this book builds upon and expands the life and death stakes lewis proposed by demonstrating that the gospel way of faith itself has been placed in the dock by us and in many ways ruined our relationships with god with our own selves with one another and even with the natural world itself which we are meant to steward for its good in these pages the reader will discover why the gospel that requires faith is good news but why we so tragically default to our divisive and self destructive ways

a robust scholarly defense of the distinctiveness of the canonical gospels do the four new testament gospels share some essence that distinguishes them from noncanonical early gospels the tendency among biblical scholars of late has been to declare the answer to this question no that matthew mark luke and john were grouped together by happenstance and are defended as canonical today despite there being no essential commonalities between them simon gathercole challenges this prevailing view and argues that in fact the theological content of the new testament gospels distinguishes them substantially from noncanonical gospels gathercole shows how the gospels of matthew mark luke and john each include four key points that also formed the core of early christian preaching and teaching jesus's identity as messiah the saving death of jesus the resurrection of jesus and scripture's foretelling of the christ event in contrast most noncanonical gospels like the gospel of thomas the gospel of truth and marcion's gospel only selectively appropriated these central concerns of early christian proclamation

Sin, the Human Predicament, and Salvation in the Gospel of John mathew e sousa demonstrates that in certain respects john s doctrine of salvation fails to align with its customary depiction in johannine scholarship sousa suggests that according to john the human predicament is not merely unbelief or a lack of mental perception and jesus s mission consists not merely of revelation and or a purely forensic atonement rather jesus is for john the one who makes true and everlasting life an accomplished fact for humanity and in doing so jesus reveals the true nature of the predicament from which he saves sousa argues that salvation in the gospel of john concerns ethics and the quality or condition of human corporeality the matters of sin and death in particular also make clear that according to john the human predicament is a reality that in various ways persists for believers as they both are and become children of god sousa thus concludes that salvation for john consists of far more than the emergence of belief in a moment of decision
